What's In Store for the Austin Market during 2009?

The 2008 IREM Real Estate Forecast Forum is a must-attend event featuring specialists from all facets of the real estate industry providing their projections and insight into what Austin's real estate market will hold in 2009 and beyond.

This year we are honored to have Dr. Mark Dotzour, Senior Economist & Director of Research with Texas A & M University as our keynote speaker. He will provide a 30 minute local, regional and national economic overview.

Our local economy is experiencing major changes, and the forecast forum will help you understand the factors that are impacting our market. Armed with their predictions on absorption, rental rates, relocations and occupancy, you will have important information you need to enhance your success in this market.
